

twogether reader survey 2010

Dear Readers,

In order to always align the twogether magazine with its diversity of topics with your requirements, we would like you to have your say. That's because we want to offer you a twogether magazine that is even more tailored to your wishes and preferences in the future.

To do this, we will carry out a random reader survey with a professional institute for empirical research at the beginning of 2010. This survey will take place online and will only take a few minutes of your time. Let us know with just a few clicks which topics interest you, how helpful the twogether articles are for you, how you judge the quality of our technical papers and which topics you would like to read about in the future.

We will only contact selected twogether readers.

Participation of the survey is voluntary, but we would be very grateful for your collaboration and thank you in advance for your assistance. You can always let us know your opinion at any time by visiting twogether.voithpaper@voith.com independently of this survey.

The twogether editorial staff

